

Stroogle craze takes hold

■ STROOGLE CRAZE: Husband and wife duo, Jenny Adlam and Dr Cameron Stelzer have gone Stroogle mad with their educational children's books and merchandise.

FORMER Blackwater resident Jenny Adlam got more than she bargained for when she teamed up with Dr Cameron Stelzer - a marriage proposal and a book dedicated to her!

The husband and wife duo are the creators of Stroogle Books which are educational children's books with a twist.

Stroogle Books are the new craze hitting our schools and the Stroogle's New Home is the exciting sequel to The Stroogle.

It is a very colourful adventure about working together and what you can achieve with some clever recycling.

Dr Stelzer said the response to the books had thus far been great.

"Many schools have booked in for workshops in 2006 and we hope to find time to visit Blackwater in 2006 to run some creative workshops and share some of the Stroogle magic," he said.

Blackwater residents can check out 'The Stroogle's New Home' at various outlets.
